

65eme anniversaire de la fédération polonaise

La Confédération Internationale de la Pêche Sportive a été invitée à la célébration du 65eme anniversaire de la fondation de l'Association de Pêche de Pologne (PZW) qui s'est tenue le 18 Juin 2015 à Popowo, près de Varsovie sous le haut patronage du Président de la République de la Pologne. M. Dionizy Ziemięcki, Président de la PZW a salué les invités (sur la photo).

La CIPS a été représentée par son Président, M. Ferenc Szalay.

Félicitations aux pêcheurs de Pologne et à la fédération polonaise, membre de la CIPS depuis 1958.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?t=10&v=NetmmV3h7Ig>

Greeting of the President of CIPS

Congratulations and celebrations on the occasion of the 65th anniversary of the foundation Polski Związek Wędkarski.

In the name of the Presidium of the International Sport Fishing Confederation, the CIPS, I would like to thank you first of all the invitation, the possibility for celebrating with you this unique event in the life of your association. Association, one of the oldest members of the CIPS and participating always very actively in the life and activities of our international confederation. And not only participating but really in the top rank of the international championships.

The CIPS, founded in 1952 is evidently the largest association of fishing in all over the world. Concerning the number of the member organizations; concerning the number of sport fishermen which we represent; concerning the quality and the high level of our competitions; and concerning the authority, the prestige of the CIPS in the world of the sports. Fishing organizations of 69 countries from all the 5 continents, 101 national organizations and an international organization, the International Casting Sport Federation as associated member are joint to our great CIPS: 138 affiliations altogether acknowledges the ideas of the fair angling, of the ethic of sport fishing, of the sport friendship.

If I would like to set up the three most important pillars of the CIPS – promotion of the sport fishing, protection of nature and the fairness of competitions – perhaps the most important pillar of the vocation of the CIPS is to promote the sport fishing; our sport is definitely a device for educating to honour the nature, to honour the sustainability of the environment, to honour the fishes, the living beings.

The Polish association in its whole history followed these noble principles.

The second such big pillar is the protection of the nature. We are all aware this means the future of the sport fishing. In the last years we did big steps on this way. , the CIPS, has underlined in the priorities of its strategy the importance of the protection of the environment, the species, the living world on the riversides and the seaside. We are aware that these issues are extraordinary important for the future of the angling sport but for the whole angling, in his totality. And we are also aware that despite of the several and serious efforts, the progress is very far from the expectations of the anglers, sport fishermen and leisure fishermen as well. The sluggish progress of the cormorant topic – despite of the existing decisions – is a good illustration example.

Therefore I proposed to try to find some possibilities, some kind of forum where the biggest and major international anglers' organizations – CIPS, EAF, EAA, ICSF - could discuss the common points, the common goals for cooperation, for the sustainability of our sport, of our leisure for the future generations. The fishing is one of oldest occupation, one of the oldest enjoyments of the Man and we would like to give inheritance for the following generation: We would like that the sport fishing remain as a treasure of this legacy.

Jak waz poeta Cyprian Norwid napsal w swe wersze Za kulisami:

Czy popiół tylko zostanie i zamęt

Co idzie w przepaść z burzą.

Czy zostanie na dnie popiołu gwiaździsty dyjament

Wiekuistego zwycięstwa zaranie?

Ten gwiaździsty dyjament moze byc nasz wedkarstwo. Dla tego życzę powodzenia w przyszłości i samych sukcesów w następujące 65 lat.

